About Me

I've lived around the Twin Cities all my life. I've had a lot of jobs, owned a couple small businesses worked in and around politics for many years. I've been an executive director, president and communications director for non-profit organizations, chairman of a ballot committee, campaign manager and a registered lobbyist.

I'm experienced in the government arena, but I also know what real work is! Some of my past professions included retail store owner, house painter, chauffeur and courier. I've also worked in fast food and gas stations.

I currently reside in Roseville and it's my hope that I can contribute to our community and improve the level of service county government provides to its citizens. Government is supposed to work for us, not the other way around!
